I am a Professional Engineer and I use the full slate of Microsoft products at work and at home. I enjoy using their products and I used Internet Explorer. I like the ability to use products that work well together. I have been using PC's since 1984 and know how "lock ups" cause problems by conflicts. I have never had problems with Microsoft products, just other applications that typically caused the conflicts.

I do not believe in the US government suing Microsoft. The problems with our stock market began with the annoucement of the first suit. I would prefer that the states and the government drop the lawsuits. The average person in the lawsuit gets nothing back, the attorneys get all the money. Please drop the action against Microsoft.
